

Image Guide | San Diego County Mammal Atlas

In support of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas, a collection of high-quality images have been assembled and are shown below. These photographs depict various mammals in the book, the editors and authors, and the cover and interior pages of the book. All of these images are available for public use and can be downloaded at: <http://bit.ly/2zQ9Ijl>. If you questions or would like to schedule an interview, please contact Public Relations and Social Media Manager April Green at 619.255.0189 or agreen@sdnhm.org.

Image	File Name	Caption	Photo Credit
	Mammal Atlas 1	The front cover of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas featuring a long-tailed weasel.	John Mitchell
	Mammal Atlas 2	A stunning photograph of a canyon bat in flight featured in the San Diego County Mammal Atlas .	Anthony Mercieca and Charlie VanTassel

Mammal Atlas 3

A bobcat at rest photographed in Jacumba, California—one of the many mammals featured in the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

Eric Kallen

Mammal Atlas 4

An alert California ground squirrel keeping an eye out for potential predators—one of the many mammals featured in the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

Anthony Mercieca

Mammal Atlas 5

Two coyotes photographed in Jamul, California—one of the many mammal species featured in the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

Debbie Merrill

Mammal Atlas 6

A male mule deer in its natural habitat—one of the gorgeous mammals represented in the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

Andrew Fisher

Mammal Atlas 7

Mammalogist Scott Tremor observing and documenting species in the field.

San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 8

A long-tailed weasel popped up to say hello to the camera.

John Mitchell

Mammal Atlas 9

Magnificent blue whales, the largest mammal on Planet Earth, can be found off the shores of San Diego County.

Tom Blackman

Mammal Atlas 10

Mammologist Scott Tremor, lead editor of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas, in the San Diego Natural History Museum's Birds and Mammals collection room.

Kate Johnson, San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 11

Field Biologist Drew Stokes in the San Diego Natural History Museum's Birds and Mammals collection room.

Kate Johnson, San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 12

Curator of Birds and Mammals Philip Unitt examines specimens in the Museum's collection.

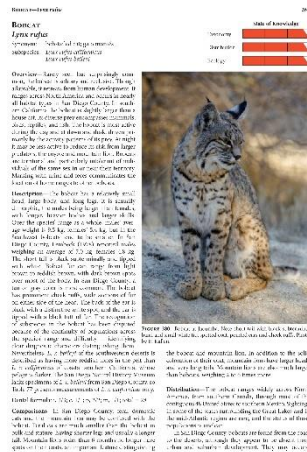

Kate Johnson, San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 13

From back to front: Field Biologist Drew Stokes, Mammalogist Scott Tremor, and Curator of Birds and Mammals Philip Unitt in the Birds and Mammals collection room.

Kate Johnson, San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 14

An interior page of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 15

An interior page of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

San Diego Natural History Museum

Mammal Atlas 16

An interior page of the San Diego County Mammal Atlas.

San Diego Natural History Museum